DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being incomplete for omitting essential structural cooperative relationships of elements, such omission amounting to a gap between the necessary structural connections. See MPEP § 2172.01. The omitted structural cooperative relationships are:

- The claim language does not provide a structural relationship between the valve body, the induction mechanism and the back flow valve mechanism; and
- In section d of claim 1, the term "induction valve" lacks antecedent basis.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Devos et al., in view of Leys et al., Brody, and Onodera.

Devos et al., discloses a plurality of valve components which are assembled into a single, multi-valve manifold, the valve components (110, 112) having a first inlet port and a second inlet port, and an induction/back flow valve (Figure 9).

In view of the Section 112 discrepancies discussed above, the examiner of record has included the Devos et al., Leys et al., Brody, and Onodera patents to demonstrate the conventionality of two/three-way rotary valves and the use of induction/backflow valves in combination with rotary valves in a manifold. Importantly, Leys et al., discloses three-way valve having an induction mechanism that maintains one of the ports closed until a pre-determined pressure is reached within the other ports and a backflow valve.

Based on the above observations, for a person of ordinary skill in the art, modifying the manifold assembly disclosed by Devos et al., with an induction mechanism and a backflow valve would have been considered obvious in view of the conventionality of this valve design.
